ISSUE TOUCHING PURSE GREATEST,
COOLIDGE HOLDS*Therefore President Will Stress Tax Reduction and Governmental Economy.*NO NEED TO TALK HONESTY

This issue, raised by John W. Davis, is considered too self-evident and one on which Executive has been insistent during all of tenure.

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—President Coolidge believes the "pocketbook issue" is paramount in the coming campaign. "Great forward declarations for more economy in government and reduction of taxation, it was learned from those close to him will constitute his main offensive against the issues launched by his opponents.

From wasteful extravagance in government and high taxation he believes all economic evils flow. Give the country a rigorously economical government, free business and industry from uncertainty and economic affairs will take care of themselves. His attitude as reflected by friends.

Mr. Coolidge is said to regard the "honesty in government" issue, made prominent by John W. Davis, as too self-evident and fundamental to require emphasis. The President in past speeches and action has pledged rigid enforcement of the law and prosecution of offenders against the government and will let the matter rest there. He does not believe in making a virtue of being virtuous.

All preparations for the national ceremonies tomorrow night are complete. Chairman Butler of the Republican National Committee has gone to Great Britain to make it a non-exclusive affair. Though it will be held in Memorial Continental Hall, scene of the disastrous conference, with a capacity of only 2,500, seats have been reserved for only a few of those closely associated with the campaign and personal friends of the President. The rest are to be open to the public.

RUM MUCH IN EVIDENCE IN WASHINGTON

By United Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 13.—The rising tide of liquor has hit the Nation's capital and officials from Commissioner Haynes down are scandalized. More than 100 drunken persons have been arrested on the streets within the last few days. Fifteen citizens have been corralled in a rum run-up and scores of arrests have been made in fashionable hotel roof-garden dancing places.

The rum wave has spread such alarm that police and detectives have been made United States deputies, so that they can begin a big drive to dry up Washington. "Tuxedoed agents, with stiff starched shirts and diamond studs, haunt the exclusive dancing restaurants nightly and arrest young boys and girls with hip flasks filled with gin.

Six private apartment houses have been raided recently and men and women charged with possession and sale of liquor. Only a few bootleggers themselves have been taken and the drive has been concentrated chiefly against the drinkers rather than the purveyors.

Davis Wins Over Klan Candidate in Ohio, Two to One

By United Press.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 13.—Former Governor Harry L. Davis has won the Republican nomination for governor in Tuesday's primary by a plurality of approximately two to one over his nearest opponent, Joseph R. Soper, the Klan candidate.

Davis will oppose Governor V. Donahoe, who early won the Democratic nomination. Davis and Donahoe were opponents for the governorship in 1920 and Davis won out. Donahoe was re-nominated in 1922 and won the election from Carmi Thompson.

Congressman Theodore Burton of Cleveland has been re-nominated.

Donahoe Woman Needs Divorce.
A bill in divorce was filed Tuesday in Uniontown by Edith M. Kessler of Donahoe, a Westmoreland county, wife of James W. Kessler of Meadville. They were married at Indian Head May 16, 1922. Cruel and barbarous treatment is alleged.

State Health Secretary Gives Warning of Dangers in Delay
To Guard Against Smallpox*IGNITION BY ACCIDENT
OF EXPLOSIVES HELD
CAUSE GATES BLAST

Accidental ignition of explosives used by shot firers caused the explosion in the Gates mine of the H. C. Frick Coke Company July 26 which caused the death of 10 men, according to the verdict arrived at by the coroner's jury Tuesday afternoon, returned after hearing testimony to the effect that a large piece of slate had fallen from the roof of Room 31 in which six men were found dead, and probably had ignited dynamite and sticks of melon on the floor of the room.

During the testimony of Edward E. Girod, it was revealed that he and W. H. Howarth disagreed with inspectors Richard Maize, Silas S. Hall and Harry Puthyon as to the cause of the blast. Only agreed to state the report so that such a report could be completed in time for the inquest and sent to the State Bureau of Mines. In an explanation to the jury, Mr. Girod stated that the inspectors had worked and argued for three days, trying to reach a conclusion but had failed to agree as to the most likely cause. The two contended that the fall of the slate set off the explosives which ignited the coal dust while the others were of the opinion that an accumulation of gas may have taken place in the vicinity where the six men were found in Room 31, due to the gradual issue of gas and dust, caused by a heavy fall and to a disarrangement of ventilation, which accumulation could have been ignited by an electric arc from the coal cutting machines or by the firing of the detonators.

The majority inspectors said that this explanation seemed the most reasonable but that "there was not sufficient evidence to make this opinion positive."

The three inspectors on the board of investigation declared that evidence they received indicated that the slate in Room No. 31 had fallen after the explosion had occurred.

John Wenzling, mine foreman, at Gates, declared that in his opinion the large rock, weighing 200 pounds which had fallen from the roof of Room 31 and which when it fell hit six feet of a weight of 1,500 pounds, set off detonators and 60 sticks of melon that were in the room at the time. A safety lamp and three detonators to which six wires had been attached were found under the rock. Sixty sticks of melon and other detonators in the room were set off by the fire which followed. He declared cutting of coal resulted in an explosion.

In their report the five inspectors paid a high compliment to the H. C. Frick Coke Company, stating that the company had spared no pains nor expense to make and keep the gates mine in a safe condition.

The report closed with the following recommendations:

- 1.—That the ventilation be arranged so as to reduce to a minimum, the chances of short circuiting the air current.
- 2.—That proper examinations be made and efficient supervision provided for the workings on the slate shift.
- 3.—That the Federal Bureau of Mines withhold its approval of electric detonators unless the type submitted for approval, provides against their being exploded accidentally by electricity.
- 4.—That greater care be exercised in the handling of detonators and explosives.
- 5.—That all electric wires and equipment be installed and maintained and operated so as to reduce the danger of arcing to a minimum.

ELMER WHALEY'S CASE IS TURNED OVER TO COUNTY

Elmer Whaley, charged with the illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor, was arrested last night by city police and sent to the county jail this morning. The matter was placed in the hands of the district attorney.

Whaley has been arrested a number of times for similar offenses and recently was found guilty in court in Uniontown for a liquor law violation. He appealed and sentence was withheld pending the appeal. Following his arrest last night, however, he was immediately remanded to the county jail. He was taken there today by Constable Earl Jobs.

State Police at Rockview.
HARRISBURG, Aug. 13.—Major Lynn Adams of the State Police accompanied today by his assistant, State policeman to the Rockview Penitentiary as a result of recent jail breaks to assist guards in preventing such escapes.

Jesse A. Cypher
Will Be Next Head
Of W. P. Firemen

SOMERSET, Aug. 13.—Councilman Jesse A. Cypher of Connellsville will be the next president of the Western Pennsylvania Firemen's Association. At the formal opening of the 31st annual convention here yesterday afternoon nomination of officers featured the business session. There was only one nomination for each office. Mr. Cypher was named for president; William H. Sharr for secretary and R. E. Myers for treasurer. Nomination is equivalent to election.

The convention was formally opened in the spacious auditorium at Edgewood Grove and more than 100 volunteer companies were represented by delegates at the opening business session. Chairman W. D. Lambert, chief of the Somerset department, called the convention to order.

Formal welcome was extended to the visiting firemen by Burgess A. Kent Miller, followed by an address by Judge John A. Berkley. President P. W. Adams then took charge of the convention and special memorial services were held in honor of the firemen who died during the last year.

John M. Mark of Oil City delivered the memorial address.

Kiwanis Club Hears Discussion on How to Succeed in Business

In what was described by President Banks D. Brown of the Connellsville Kiwanis Club as the best address ever made before it, J. W. Groat, general manager of the Retail Merchants' Institute of Chicago, Ill., today featured the mid-weekly luncheon program of that organization with a talk on "The Need of Practical Training in Business." He dwelt only on "distribution" and did not attempt to touch any other points in his talk.

"Truthfulness and accuracy in advertising," said Mr. Groat, was one of the biggest steps towards success. High lights of Mr. Groat's address were:

The percentage of net profits to retail merchants has been on a decline since 1913.

Thirty years ago, there was a high cost of production with short haul to consumer. Today, we have mass production with long hauls.

We must place the article in the hands of the consumer to make it of value.

More than 20 millions in the United States are engaged in distribution.

The basic activity of your town is retail distribution.

Your town must have more production. It should keep going.

Distribution is being changed by outside forces of competition. Distribution is centralizing. The average town is getting about only 60 percent of the trade it ought to be getting.

Centralization is being effected by the large city department stores, the mail order house and the chain store.

Trade winning depends upon three simple things—advertising, display and salesmanship.

Greater cooperation of the city's business men was urged by Mr. Groat to win the trade that is going to outside competitors. He urged organization to include banking, printing, clothing, grocery, jewelry and other departments covering the retail business of the city, that all may work together for common good. He showed how 60 Minneapolis, Minn. business men cooperated, and how 10 Chambersburg, Pa. retailers won trade by sending out 17,000 cooperative advertisements for 21 consecutive months.

As for display, retailers were credited with using their windows to good advantage, but were accused of not employing their store interiors as they should.

"Touching upon salesmanship, Mr. Groat deplored indifference and negativism. He showed that of 107 families quitting a store in the Pittsburgh district, 17 had quit trading on account of clerks' indifference.

"Never give a customer a chance to say 'no,'" urged Mr. Groat to the retailers, adding: "But I don't mean to be discourteous to the customer. We are negatives in our selling. Don't be a negative."

Plenty of Money on Coolidge
At 3 to 1; Davis Betting 1 to 12
4; LaFollette Low, at 1 to 1

Estimated in Wall Street That Upwards of $10,000,000 Will Be Posted.

By United Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Election betting has grown to such magnitude that it now ranks with other high-power transactions along the Wall Street money front. It is estimated that between $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 will be wagered on the candidates and already close to the minimum figure has trickled through the hands of the commissionmen.

This is not greatly in excess of other years. In 1920 there was a ripple over $5,000,000 wagered on the prospects of Warren G. Harding and James M. Cox. In 1916 over $10,000,000 was wagered in the fight between Woodrow Wilson and Charles E. Hughes.

Those odds today are quoted: "Plenty of money on President Coolidge at 3 to 1; Davis, 1 to 3 1/2 or 4; Robert M. LaFollette, little offered and that at odds of about 1 to 12."

MAN SHOT TRYING TO MAKE ESCAPE FROM OFFICER

Endeavoring to elude Baltimore and Ohio Police Officer Walter Moore and C. Kress, agent for the American Railway Express Company, near the Baltimore and Ohio station last night, a man giving his name as W. E. Hudepeth of West Newton was shot in the left shoulder but not seriously wounded. He was taken to the Connellsville Police Hospital, where it was said today his condition was good.

According to the police officer the man seemingly reached for a weapon as he ran and the shot was fired in self-defense. It is alleged the man had been loitering about an express car and was discovered by employees at the railroad station.

Kress approached him but when he endeavored to open a conversation Hudepeth bolted. The railroad police were notified and after a search he was located. Taken to the express car for examination, Hudepeth, according to the other men, reached for a pocket and began to run toward the tracks. Moore fired and stopping almost instantly Hudepeth gave himself up. He was taken to the hospital at once.

He was wearing neither a shirt nor socks. No weapon was found on him.

No Mental Disease
State Alienist Says
Of Richard Loeb

By United Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 13.—"There was no evidence of mental disease in Richard Loeb on May 21," Dr. Hugh T. Patrick, state alienist, stated positively in court today at the judicial hearing of Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb for the murder of Robert Frank.

Striving to break down the defense case of "disordered functioning of the mind," the prosecution today took Dr. Patrick carefully along the line of the defense statement in an effort to disprove every statement put forward in mitigation of punishment.

John S. Sharron, assistant state's attorney, asked Dr. Patrick whether he had formed an opinion of Loeb, taking into consideration the statement of the defense that the defendant was immature, that three badly teeth a light growth of hair on body was forced to shave only once or twice a week, was subject to fainting spells and tremors of the hand and face.

"I saw no evidence of a mental disease," the witness answered, "unless one were to consider that the commission of crime was evidence of a mental disease."

In Result of Campaign, the LaFollette Movement Giving Them Concern.

FIGHT TO BE IN THE WEST

Where there is Doubt Whether Wisconsinian will draw Greatest Strength; Davis' Speech Regarded as Notice of Intention to make Fight

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924, by The Courier.

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Aug. 13.—It would be stretching the truth to say that an air of confidence prevailed among the visitors here over the outcome of the election. The outlook is so full of possibilities that anything from a landslide to a freakish result is contemplated as likely to happen. One outstanding reason for this is the concern being shown over the growth of the La Follette movement and there is no little fear that the three cornered fight may be thrown into the House of Representatives for decision.

While there is no confidence of victory ingrained as yet—though there is still time for that—it is equally true that the men from the West do not share the unbounded confidence of the East that it is all over but the shouting and that Coolidge will win. The westerners talk of La Follette with a series of mathematical deductions, which if collected here and there would seem to indicate that the race west of the Mississippi is between Davis and La Follette.

Not a few of these westerners insist that most of the radicals went into the Republican party when the non-partisan league began to function and that Minnesota and North Dakota are concrete examples of where the radical voters really affiliated. There are some exceptions like Montana and Colorado where La Follette may pull many more Democratic than Republican votes, it was suggested by western leaders who were here, but by and large they talk of La Follette grabbing anywhere from 50 to 60 percent of the Republican strength in which case a plurality for Davis is of course not impossible.

Politicians need only a straw to give them courage. The real truth of the notification ceremony is that the Democrats are putting heart into each other.

Not even Woodrow Wilson with his first acceptance speech in 1912 stirred up the enthusiasm and emotions of the practical politicians of his party as did Davis Monday night as he laid the foundations of the greatest case of his career as an advocate. He will appeal to the American jury from now on, as he himself expresses it, and "it will be no kid glove contest."

Speeches of notification are important, of course, as interpretations of the national platform and the opening gun in a campaign, but they are of greater importance to the party workers. The leaders really want to see how a candidate will handle himself on the stump. They want to be inspired to go back home and fight for their nominees.

Davis enters the Democratic lists almost as unknown as the leaders who were Wilson in 1912. Their eyes are turned critically toward the nominee—who, want to see how he will measure up in a fight. The Democrats who came to Clarksburg were away shaking the praise of their nominees—they are wondering over now how, by accident, it happened to pick at brilliant a speaker and as expert an advocate.

From now on there will be a real fight effort made by the Democrats along the lines laid down by the candidate in his notification speech.

The final contract, the court said, came within the limits of the statute of fraud.

Confluence Man Held On Liquor Charge

CUMBERLAND, Aug. 13.—Scott Nicholson of Confluence was arrested on charges of transporting and possessing intoxicating liquor and a new truck which he was driving was confiscated by General Enforcement Agent William R. Harvey and Deputy Luther Hopwood and Raymond Blittinger, Monday near Oakland, Md. Nicholson was brought to Cumberland and at a hearing Tuesday morning his plea of guilty to transporting and possessing liquor was released under $500 bond.

Nicholson is said to be the proprietor of "Autumn Inn," a road house near Oakland. The officers were buying refreshments when Nicholson arrived with his truck. On examining the truck the officers found four gallons of liquor in glass jars. Nicholson attempted to escape but was apprehended.

Earthquake Shakes Japan.
TOKIO, Aug. 13.—A sharp earthquake shook the Nagoya which stopped clocks in the cities of Osaka, Kobe and Yoko and sent people scurrying to the streets in their nightclothes. It was reported to lay in disaster from Osaka. The tremor was sufficiently severe to throw dishes and other articles to the floor but did no great damage.

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, Aug. 13.—Favorable weather conditions will find the U. S. Army fliers at Labrador within 10 days, possibly sooner.

"If the weather continues good we hope to reach Labrador four days after leaving Reykjavik," Lieutenant Lowell Smith, commanding, said. "That will mean stopping a night at Angmagssalik on the east coast of Greenland, two at Ivigtut on the west coast."

The airmen hope to leave Reykjavik this week.

STROMNESS, Orkney Islands, Aug. 13.—Lieutenant Locatelli, Italian aviator, hopped off from the Orkneys for Iceland today. He hopes to catch up with the American fliers and accompany them to Labrador.

Davis "Much Encouraged" By Reception

By United Press.
NEW YORK, Aug. 13.—Greatly encouraged by the reception tendered him at Clark College, John W. Davis returned to New York ready today to cooperate toward the vigorous campaign he has demanded on his national committee.

During the day he will confer with Senator Ray Pittman of the Democratic Speakers' Bureau and the itinerary for his speaking tour will be lined up. He will start his campaign with a speech at the Democratic state convention in Columbus, Ohio, August 26. The Democratic nominee slipped into New York almost unnoticed, accompanied by Mrs. Davis and a retinue of secretaries.

Collins Celebration Postponed.
The celebration of the 79th anniversary of the birth of Clark Collins, which was to have been held Thursday afternoon at the Collins home at East Conneltsville, was postponed until Friday afternoon because of the death of Ananias C. Bitner, member of the William F. Kurtz Post, Grand Army of the Republic. The veterans will go on the 2 o'clock car.

Grim Reaper

J. C. FULTON.
John C. Fulton, 68 years old, well known architect of Uniontown, died Tuesday morning at his home following a lingering illness. He was born at Buena Vista, Allegheny county, February 11, 1856, and was married in 1880 at West Newton to Mary E. Ray. He resided in Uniontown in 1881 and associated himself in business with O. P. Markie. About 1890 this partnership was dissolved and Mr. Fulton began his career as an architect, building up a large clientele all over the county. He was a church designer of considerable note. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Uniontown and of the church session. He was also a prominent Mason and was a director of the Citizens Title & Trust Company of Uniontown. Besides his wife he is survived by two children, T. Ray and Helen M., both of Uniontown, one sister, Mrs. Ida Garwin, of South Fayette, Pa., and two brothers, Frank M. of Tonawanda, Wash. and Candus M. of Staten Island, N. Y.

The funeral service will be held at the home Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with the Rev. Dr. William R. Van Buskirk, officiating, assisted by the Rev. Dr. William Hamilton Speace. Interment which will be private, will be in Oak Grove Cemetery.

ANANIAS BITNER.
A military funeral service for Ananias C. Bitner, Civil War veteran, who died Tuesday morning at his home in Bullock township, will be held Thursday afternoon. The funeral party will assemble at the Bitner residence, near the Pleasant Valley Country Club, at 1:30 o'clock, going from there to the Mount Olive Church where an additional service will be held at 2 o'clock. William F. Kurtz Post, Grand Army of the Republic, of which Mr. Bitner was a member, will have charge, conducting the G. A. R. ritual at the grave. All members of the post and the firing squad, composed of members of Milton L. Bishop Post of the American Legion, will meet at 1 o'clock at the office of Commander W. F. Clark on the sixth floor of the Second National Bank building. From there they will be taken in automobiles to Mount Olive Church.

JOHN WILLIAM MULLEN.
John William Mullen, 18 years old son of Martin and Mary O'Doughlin Mullen, died at the home of his parents this morning at 8 o'clock of Bright's disease. He had been ailing since May. The youth was an employee of the Conneltsville Machine, Car & Steel Casting Company. He was a graduate of the Parochial School in this city. The young man was born and reared in Conneltsville. Besides his parents, he is survived by six brothers and two sisters, the oldest of whom is 20 years and the youngest two.

The funeral service will be held Saturday morning. The funeral cortege will leave the home at 8:30 o'clock. Regular high mass will be celebrated at St. Vincent de Paul Church at Leisensring No. 1 at 9 o'clock.

MRS. GRACE HAWKING.
Mrs. Grace Hawking, 19 years old, died Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of her brother, Amos Harding at Ferguson, near Dunbar. She had been ill for some time. Besides her brother, Amos, she is survived by one sister, Henrietta, and four other brothers, William, Jr., Roy and Raymond at Dunbar and Dan in the South. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harding, both deceased.

The funeral service will be held at the brother's home Friday at 2 o'clock, with Rev. O. W. Holton, pastor of the Dunbar Methodist Protestant Church, officiating. Interment will be made in Mount Auburn Cemetery.

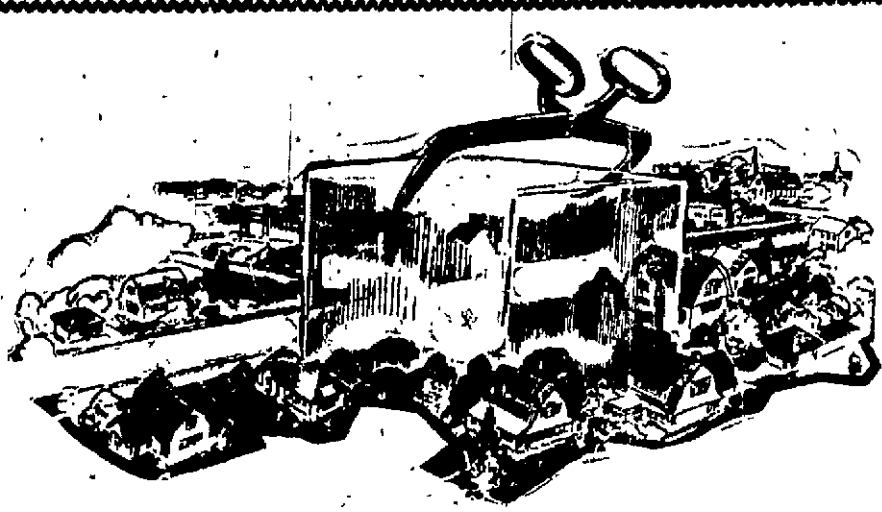

MRS. SARAH SELLERS.
CONFLUENCE, Aug. 13.—Mrs. Sarah Sellers, 78 years old, widow of A. G. Sellers, died yesterday at her home near Urtica. She had been bedridden and helpless for six years.

Her husband, who lived with her, cared for her. Other survivors are a son, William Sellers of Conneltsville, a Baltimore & Ohio conductor, and H. L. Sellers of Confluence.

The funeral will be Thursday at 10 o'clock at the home, with burial in Urtica Cemetery adjoining the home.

JOHN SMITH.
John Smith, in his 45th year, died at his home near Uniontown Saturday evening. Mr. Smith formerly resided at Elm Grove.

The funeral services were held yesterday at his home near Uniontown, followed by further services at the St. Stephen Greek Catholic Church at Leisensring No. 1. Rev. Eugene Petrasovich officiated. Interment was made in the church cemetery.

MRS. LLOYD C. HEPLER.
Mrs. Beatrice Nolan Hepler, wife of Lloyd C. Hepler of Smithfield died Monday night in the Westmoreland Hospital at Greensburg.

Everson Man Injured.
SCOTTSBURGH, Aug. 13.—John F. Blazanski, 56 years old, employed at the H. C. Frick cars shops at Everson, was severely injured yesterday in an accident to a crane used in unloading coal. He was struck on the head, suffering severe lacerations, while a ton of coal was broken by a blow on the side.

S.S.S. stops Rheumatism

"My Rheumatism is all gone. I feel a wonderful glory again in the free motion I used to have when my days were younger. I can thank S.S.S. for it all. Do not close your eyes and think that health, free motion and strength are gone from you forever! It is not so. S.S.S. is waiting to help you. When you increase the number of your red-blood-cells, the entire system undergoes a tremendous change. Everything depends on blood strength. Blood which is minus sufficient red-cells tends to a long list of troubles. Rheumatism is one of them." S.S.S. is the great blood-cleanser, blood-builder, system strengthener, and nerve invigorator. S.S.S. is sold at all good drug stores in two sizes. The larger size is more economical.

VANDERBILT AND DAWSON POSTS WILL HOLD PICNIC 26TH

Joint Meeting of Committees
Will Be Held Tonight to Further Plans.

DRIVING PARK THE PLACE

Special to The Courier.
VANDERBILT, Aug. 13.—A community outing will be held by Emory
Lewis Post of the American Legion of Vanderbilt and Milton J.
Newmyer Post at Dawson at the Dawson Driving Park on Tuesday, Aug.
26. At a meeting Tuesday evening in the Dawson Legion rooms, George C. Cochran, adjutant of Newmyer post, was named general chairman of the picnic.

A joint meeting of the committees will be held this evening in the Vanderbilt Legion rooms. Every person who is a member of the committees is requested to be on hand.

The Legion officials will try to get the merchants to take their half-holiday on Tuesday of that week, instead of Wednesday. In order to make the outing a greater success. This would be the last half-holiday during this year for the Vanderbilt business men and an outing would add to the spectacle of the year, it is believed. The Dawson merchants will continue with the half-holidays during September.

Larceny Case Resumed Tonight.
Frank Ketter of Grindstone was arraigned before Justice of the Peace
D. B. Arison last evening to answer a charge of larceny. It was said Ketter stole a $35 gold watch from Charles Corder, also of Grindstone. At the request of the defendant to hold the case over until this evening, the court adjourned until 7 o'clock. But one witness was sworn in last evening.

Odd Fellows Meeting.
The regular weekly business meeting of the Odd Fellows was held last evening in the Junior O. U. A. M.
Hall.

Charged With Trespassing.
Thomas Henry, Charles and Mrs.
Martin O. Maier, all of Dunbar borough, were sentenced to pay fines and costs when arraigned before Justice of the Peace C. B. Arison
Monday evening charged with trespassing. The defendants were alleged to have trespassed over the property of the Mount Auburn Cemetery Company at Dunbar. Wilson Folsie, secretary of the cemetery company,
brought information against them.

Among the witnesses sworn were Joseph Logan, Smith Workman, Raymond Dodge, Mrs. Blackon, Mr.
Smiley and Charles Wall.

Frank Pella Transferred.
Frank Pella, who has been in charge of the commissary at Dickerson Run for the Corral Coal Company, has been transferred to the new commissary recently opened by the company at Jacob's Creek. Vincent Castaldi has accepted the position at Dickerson Run, succeeding Mr.
Pella.

Farm Calendar

The Pennsylvania State College
gives the following hints:

Growing the Pullet.—In order that pullets may make normal growth,
they should be given the best of care
during the summer months. Clean, cool houses, green food, plenty of mash hoppers, space, and freedom from lice and other pests are points to be remembered in developing the pullets into early winter layers.

Shade and Water for Hogs.—Shade and fresh water are of great importance to the comfort, health, and the greatest gain of growing pigs. Shade eliminates the restlessness which is bound to occur if hogs are too hot.
Hog men agree that a supply of clean, fresh water should be available for the "porkers" at all times.

The Farm Spring.—Farmers who have been troubled with their springs going dry just when they need water for their stock can improve this condition by well placed planting of forest trees. Evergreens should be used and the closer they are planted,
the sooner they will help the water storage.

Tomatoes for Poultry.—Surplus tomatoes from the garden can be fed to the chickens. The old stock and growing birds relish this vegetable and will consume large quantities with beneficial effects.

Care of Cream Separator.—Running a little cold water through the cream separator as a substitute for thorough cleaning means that the next batch of cream run through will develop the undesirable odor and poor keeping qualities that bring lower prices.
Hot water kills the bacteria which cause the lowering of the quality of cream and it should be used freely, not only with the cream separator
but with all dairy utensils.

Washing Berries.
If so, it will pay you to read our advertising columns.

WITH U. S. WORLD FLIERS IN BLEAK ORKNEYS.

Here are the first pictures of the U. S. Army round the world fliers as they bade good-bye to the inhospitable Orkney Islands, before starting their flight to Iceland. Lieutenant Erik Nelson became separated from his companions and reached Iceland, but Lieutenants Smith and Wade were forced by fog to return. They started again last day. Lieutenant Smith's plane was wrecked, but Lieutenant Wade, one of the observers, took a final swig of Scotch, something he won't get when he reaches the United States.

What the Dial Was For

"I see that you don't know how to tune this set," the friend observed, as he began adjusting the knobs. "But don't let this worry you, old man; we all have to learn, you know. Now," he continued, "did you notice the increased volume of sound as I turned the last dial? Just put the finishing touches on reception, as it were. Of course, one cannot touch you the whole game of reception at one sitting; but I will say this much—you would do well to pay particular attention to that dial if you want good quality and plenty of volume. That is one of the most sensitive controls.
Condenser, I suppose?"

"Yes," replied the host. "You see, it is like this. I bored an extra hole in the panel by mistake and I put a knob there to hide it. It does not control anything, except the imagination."—Wireless Age.

History of Loving Cups

All racing cups are not necessarily loving cups. A loving cup is one having two or more handles, generally constructed of silver. The custom of the loving cup is traced back to the days of wassailing. It was continued after the introduction of Christianity.

The monks called the wassail bowl the "poculum caritatis," meaning "loving cup." The ceremony of drinking from one cup and passing it around was observed in the Jewish paschal supper.

Many Volcanic Craters in the United States

When we think of volcanoes we generally associate them with some foreign country, but here in our own domain we have within a comparatively restricted area a group of 66 volcanic craters. This is in Idaho and the place is called the "Craters of the Moon."

because the landscape is so cold looking and so barren of vegetation that it resembles the landscape of the moon as it seems to us when viewed through a telescope. While it is barren it is not without color, for there is considerable variation in the tints of the ground which is covered with the "frozen"

lava which flowed from these craters a few hundred years ago. There is one field which is called the Blue Dragon which is lava of a beautiful aurean tint and with a polish as if it had been varnished. There are cracks in the deposit at regular intervals and all of similar shape, which makes the mass resemble the scales of a great dragon.

These volcanic mounds are of various heights and some of interesting formation, with considerable variation as to color. This field is about three miles wide and thirty long and has been recently dedicated to the purposes of a public park. While it is exactly accessible, it is not a difficult place to get at and at the present time it is little known. It is located between Gary and Arco.

Rich Man Might Better Have Forgotten Penny

In his "Queer Things About London," Mr. C. G. Harper tells the following story:

Go the north side of Piccadilly is that famous labyrinthine warren of exceedingly select bachelor chambers, dating from about 1804, and known to most people as "The Albany."

By the smart set who reside there,
however, it is accounted unbecoming to speak of it as "The Albany." If you perpetrate that grave error, you cannot be "one of us."

Albany has always been affected, as a place of residence, by men of rank and fashion. Herein dwelt the millionsaire Baron Meyer de Rothschild, and coming from his luxurious chambers one day he dropped a penny on the pavement outside.

He sought long and anxiously for the coin; but vainly, for it had rolled down a grating. Resuming an upright position, he remarked sadly on the feeble nature of riches. Meanwhile a pickpocket had relieved him of his watch.

Victor Tires

This is a unique sale. Who has ever heard of a $1.00 Profit Sale? The big reason for this sale is to get you acquainted with VICTOR Tires. Another reason is because we want to turn our tire stock into cash.

There is no tire made that is any better than the VICTOR—for wearing qualities, for appearance, or for the money invested. It is one of the old established tires that have been on the roads for years. Unfortunately it has not been well introduced in the Coke Region.

It's to your advantage to get acquainted with VICTOR Tires. Once a man puts on a set of Victor Tires he's always a Victor owner. You'll never have a better opportunity to get acquainted with Victor Tires than during our $1.00 Profit Sale. Come in the Shop and let us tell you more about them.

CHILD PUSHED IN FRONT OF CAR: HAS HIS ARM BROKEN

Police Investigating Story of Children at Play at Mount Pleasant.

MULLIN FAMILY REUNION

By United Press.
MOUNT PLEASANT, Aug. 13.—
Monday evening Tony Crosby, grandson of Dr. and Mrs. S. M. Crosby, was pushed into the front of the car when the automobile came down the street.
Boys playing with Tony are said to have pushed him out in front of the car. The boy had his arm fractured and was badly cut and bruised. At first it was thought he was injured internally, but later it developed that the injuries were not as bad as was thought at first. The police are investigating.

High School Registration.
Registration in the high school for the freshmen and sophomores will be held August 21 and 22 and for the juniors and seniors, August 25 and 26.
Chester M. Jelbert, a graduate of Allegheny College, will have charge of the athletics in the high school.
Mr. Jelbert taught in the Trafford schools before coming here and had to stay at Trafford this year would have had charge of the athletics.
Some very good material is developing in the town, and with James Post as captain and a good coach
it is expected that Mount Pleasant High will make a good showing for itself in the football world.

Mullin Family Reunion.
C. E. Mullin, Dr. Jesse S. Mullin,
Harry Mullin and Mrs. Emma Tinsman entertained the Mullin family at a reunion at the C. E. Mullin home a North Church street. Forty members of the family from Pittsburgh, Greensburg, Uniontown and nearby places were present. A dinner was served in the orchard. A most enjoyable day was spent.

Finest for Fighting.
Peter Seco, who had stab wounds,
and Charles Marto, who had been shot in the neck, were given a hearing before Judge John L. Shields last evening, charged with fighting in the borough. While one admitted that he had stab wounds marks and the other that had marks from being shot the stories of the two men did not correspond. Both claimed self-defense. Burroughs Shields fixed each $20 the costs in each case being $5.
Marto has made information before Judge of the Peace, J. R. Walker against Seco charging him with felonious assault and battery with intent to kill. A hearing will be given him on Thursday evening.

Patrolman on Vacation.
Patrolman Joseph White is on his vacation. Alex Zaiden is doing extra police duty in White's place.

At the Hospital.
Hilda Heller underwent an operation at the Memorial Hospital yesterday.

Personal.
Mrs. M. A. Klug, Mrs. Charles E.
Mullin and Mrs. Emma Tinsman were guests of Mrs. B. M. Loe at Greensburg at a luncheon yesterday at the home of Mrs. Loe at New Kensington

A stitch in time saves nine—a few days' treatment right now with this renowned medicine may save a lifetime heartbreak through grief and perhaps the breaking up of a happy home.
Never mind what you have tried before—if you get up through the night, if your palms are moist, if you even suspect you have kidney trouble, get Dr. Carey's Marshmallow Prescription No. 777 today at C. Roy Harkness, any drugstore anywhere. If it doesn't help you, if you aren't glad in a week's time that you bought it, go and get your money back—it will be waiting for you.—Advertisement.

The Obscure and Faithful

What we call famous are often, in truth, a wider vision of past and present realities—a willing movement of a man's soul with the larger soul of the world's forces—a movement toward a more assured end than the chances of a single life. We see human heroism broken into units and my this unit did little—might as well not have been. But in this way we might break up a great army into units, in this way we might break the sunlight into fragments and think that this and the other might be cheaply parted with it. Let us, rather, raise a monument to the soldiers whose brave hearts only kept the monument unbroken, and not death—a monument to the faithful who were not famous, and who are precious as the continuity of the universe is precious, though some of them fall unseen and on barrenness.—George Eliot.

FLEERS
CHEWING GUM

BLIND CONGRESSMAN HAS BLIND STENOGRAPHER.

Congressman John L. Cable, of Lima, O., candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor, whose eyes were badly injured by spillers while opening a box of fruit, now has a blind stenographer at the World War as his stenographer. His hospital room in Cincinnati has become his campaign headquarters and there Walter Barling, an im-mate of the same hospital, takes his dictation direct on a typewriter.
Congressman Cable's sight will be restored, but Barling is permanently blind.

HOW CHOPIN SOUNDED

A countryman and his wife in London for the day, went to a music hall.
The first item on the program was an orchestral selection, on this occasion a classical one. The man suffered genuinely for a time, and then turned to his wife, who held the program.
"Maggie," he whispered, "what be this 'ere thing them fellers are play-
in'?"
"It's Chopin," she whispered back, reproachfully.
"Ah, well," he muttered, resignedly.
"It sounds more like sawin' to me."

Care-taker Ownership

The Colonel's Lady—Good heavens, Jody, do you realize that you have left the gas burning in the kitchen
every night this week?
Miss O'Grady—I know it, ma'am. I just bought some stock in the gas company and I'll either wantin' them to pay some more dividends.

Ingredients

A playwright accomplished in his line was asked the recipe for writing a melodrama.
After thinking it over he said: "It isn't so complicated. You get a hero, a shero and a Nero. Then go ahead."
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Care for Everybody

Mrs. Crawford—We're getting up a club to study auto-suggestion. You must join.
Mrs. Crabshaw—Auto-suggestion?
If it's a new scheme to get your husband to buy a car, you can count me
in.

NO CAUSE AT ALL

Friend—A man has just gotten divorced because his wife hasn't spoken to him for a year.
Mockton—Great Heavens, that's no cause for divorce!

A General Attitude

My patriot seal is not relaxed.
But you can plainly see
There are so many to be taxed.
Why should you pick on me?

The Right Church, Wrong Pew

Customer—See here, those eggs you sold me aren't fit to eat.
Market Man—Of course not. Why didn't you tell me you wanted eating eggs? I thought you wanted eggs to lead to the neighbors.

That Depends

"How long will this lawn mower
last?" asked the careful buyer.
"How many and what kind of neighbors have you?" countered the experienced hardware dealer.—Good Hardware.

ONLY FOR CERTAIN BREED

Friend (at dinner)—How can you tell old chickens from young ones?
Up-to-date Youth—Say, can't you see through a little powder and paint?

Why did the devil get his name?

—Because the word is a corruption of "the evil" which gradually became "d'evil" then plain devil. Thanks to him.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

Play in Hot Weather.

One Mother Says:

When the weather is very hot I never like to have the children play violent games, but feeling to be quiet doesn't keep them still very long. At such times I try to spend as much of the day with them as possible. In the afternoon I make orangeade, or on some such excuse get them gathered around me in a shady place in the yard or on the porch. Then I tell them stories or suggest quiet games that they can play with me. Children need to be told how to keep quiet as well as when to keep quiet.

Asthma Instantly Relieved

A Guaranteed Remedy

All druggists here prepare druggists in the United States, as a matter of fact, are authorized to sell Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes on the positive guarantee that if they do not give almost instant relief and even more, if not found absolutely the best remedy ever used, for Bronchial Asthma, Difficult Breathing or the Asthmatic symptoms accompanying Hay Fever, money will be refunded by them without question.

Sufferers who have not already tried these remedies, can rely on the genuineness of the guarantee, as well as depend on its fulfillment, in view of being backed up by their own druggists, in case it should fail. The more severe, violent or obstinate the case, the more will Asthmador be appreciated and prized, after its first trial. The percentage of failure to relieve promptly are so small that the Manufacturers have no hesitancy in announcing this guarantee, and are willing, desirous and anxious to refund to the infinitely few sufferers who do not obtain relief, as neither they, nor the druggists who sold the package, want your money, if not relieved. Read the guarantee on label.

Allied Conference Nearing the Close; Believed Success

By United Press.

LONDON, Aug. 13.—With the French seeking trade concessions in exchange for evacuation of the Ruhr, the international conference was held at a standstill today while Premier Herriot and German delegates talked business. Completion of the direct negotiations by Thursday night and the close of the main part of the conference now are expected.

"I think the conference will be successful on all points," Chancellor Marx of Germany said. "This is the most important meeting since the Treaty of Versailles was signed," Marx said, "and for the first time the Allies are treating us as equals."

The German chancellor seemed to consider this the most important factor making for success of the conference.

Country Club Road Open Friday Evening

At a meeting of the board of governors of the Pleasant Valley Country Club, held last night, it was announced that the new highway, as far as the club, would be opened at 6 o'clock Friday evening. The remainder of the road is still under construction and will be completed at an early date as possible.

The delay necessary to travel at present is a long, rough one and the opening of the through road will be welcomed.

The "One-Horn" Story

"My grandfather and grandmother once lived an antiquated four-wheeler, driven by a man even older than the cab, whose horse was a greater age than all of them combined, to pay a Sunday afternoon call in a London square nearly as far from the way from home to house, the bottom fell out of the cab, and as the aged man on the box was too deaf to hear the by no means unobtrusive expostulation of the hot-tempered old gentleman and the cries of his small and timid spouse, there was nothing for them to do but to run along inside. The laughter of those who gazed with an abandonment of joy at this most unusual sight must have done much to break the gloom of that early Victorian Sabbath."—From "Dawson's History," by Cosmo Hamlin.

Believed Part of It

The men and officers of the navy are known all over the world for their smart appearance, and it was for this reason that one of the officers on board a battleship was rather disgusted at the untidy appearance of a certain midshipman.

One morning the "mid" strolled into the wardroom where a color party was being given, and he was extremely soiled. This was too much for the officer and he decided to tackle the young man on the matter.

"Look here," he said, "you ought not to come in here wearing a filthy color like that round your neck."

"Filthy, sir," replied the midshipman, "but this collar was washed ashore only yesterday."

"I don't doubt that," was the quiet reply, "but from which wreck?"

Divada Independents Win Over Star Junction Team

"Hats" Durbin Holds Opponents to Four Hits, While Makes Six.

"Hats" Durbin's effectiveness, with men on the paths while his mates slugged the pill opportunely enabled the Divada Independents to nose out the Star Junction nine last evening, 8 to 4, at Star Junction in one of the best games ever played at Star Junction before a record crowd.

Durbin allowed the home outfit but five hits, two of which were the only extra-base hits of the game. His control was very good as he issued but two base on balls. He struck out eight Star Junction batters.

The Young Valley outfit started the fireworks in the third frame by sending one marker across the pan. Steve Schomage singled and went to second while his brother was thrown out. He scored on Whipkey's single. The fourth inning noted two runs. After Ambrose tied out to Gabor, Brown slugged as did McLaughlin, the former going to third. After Durbin whiffed, McLaughlin stole second. Steve Schomage crashed a single into deep center and both runners tallied.

The home team got two runs in the third frame when Moody awaited out a home run with Seruga on first base after he had been given a free ticket. The other two tallies for the Star Junction nine came in the fourth frame. Huser singled and went to second on Huser's out. Casey walked and Moore came through with a single sending Huser over the pan. Moore stole second and scored when Shallenberger forced Nichols's grounder.

The visitors went into the lead in the fifth frame when they scored two runs. Ambrose singled and Brown followed with another. McLaughlin was thrown out, both runners advancing. Durbin came through with a single and both runners tallied.

Thursday Divada Independents will clash with the Brownstown Independents of Fayette City at 5 o'clock. Another large crowd is expected to witness the game. Roscoe, the new moundman who recently threw a no-hit, no-run game against the crack Boggs & Buhl club from Pittsburgh, will work on the mound.

The scores:

| | R. | H. | P. | A. | E. |
|---------------|----|----|----|----|----|
| Divada | 8 | 10 | 21 | 5 | 1 |
| Star Junction | 4 | 10 | 21 | 5 | 1 |

STAR JUNCTION: R. H. P. A. E.
Seruga, 1 0 0 0 0
Gabor, 2 0 4 4 0
Woodruff, 3 2 0 0 0
Adkins, 3 1 2 0 1
Huser, 1 1 7 0 1
Hogart, 0 0 1 0 0
Casey, 0 0 1 5 1
Moore, 0 0 0 0 1
Nichols, 0 0 1 2 0

SCORE BY INNINGS:
Divada 001 202 0-5
Star Junction 002 200 0-4

SEMI-CLARITY:
Stolen bases—McLaughlin and Casey.

Earned runs—Divada 4; Star Junction 4.

Two-base hits—Moody 1.
Home runs—Moody 1.

Left on bases—Divada 4; Star Junction 1.

Three runs on errors—Divada 3; Star Junction 1.

Struck out by Durbin 8; by Nichols 4.

Placed on balls off Durbin 2.
Umpires—Wentzel, Harris and Johnson.

Divada Wants to Meet Stewart Team

The Divada Independents would like to arrange a five game series with the fast Stewart team, which is said to be one of the best in Westmoreland county. The manager of the Stewart nine is requested to get in touch with Manager P. C. Abate, Vanderbilt.

With the addition of Arthur Brown and Danny LaPorta, Bethany collegians to the infield and Joseph Roscoe to the hurling staff, the Divada team has been bolstered and would like to meet other crack nines in the coke region. The Young Valley nine is looking for another crack at Bill Percy's Capitan Independents.

Dawson and Mount Braddock Thursday

The Dawson Independents, under the management of Wilkinson, will play the fast Mount Braddock nine Thursday evening at Mount Braddock. With Jack Menster added to the hurling staff, the Tough River club boasts of one of the best in the coke region. Jack will twirl Thursday and it is probable that Swope will oppose him on the mound.

The rivermen have been winning very steadily recently, adding Juniata and Layton to the list of victories during the past week.

Diamond Notes

The St. Louis Nationals top their league in double plays.

In the early days of baseball the team which first scored 21 runs won the game.

Earl Smith, catcher for the Boston Nationals, has been purchased by the Pittsburgh club.

Coffeyville resigned from the Southwestern league because of poor attendance at its games.

Hal Chase, once a star of the Chicago White Sox, is playing first base for a ball team in Jerome, Ark.

Belle "Bunions" Zeller, former big leaguer, is now managing the Paris team in the East Texas league.

Bobby La Motte, former Grifflinn, is starring at shortstop for Memphis. He is being called the "best shortstop in the circuit."

Baltimore is not drawing so well. On July 4 in the morning only 8,500 saw the game with Reading and 5,000 in the afternoon.

Herbert Thomas, center fielder of the Daytona Baseball club of the Florida State league, has been sold to the Boston Nationals.

Boggs & Buhl Will Meet Divada Labor Day, Double Header

The Boggs & Buhl ball club of Pittsburgh will play a double-header with the Divada Independents on Labor Day at the Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. grounds. The officials of the store that is financing the ball club in a letter to President Peter C. Abate of the Divada club complimented the Young Valley club for the treatment and good sportsmanship accorded the Pittsburgh players while playing here.

Manager Butte of the Boggs & Buhl club is doing his best to present a reconstructed and reinvigorated lineup on the trip here and expect to get revenge for the defeat handed them while playing here last Wednesday.

Pirates Clash With Giants.

The Pittsburgh Pirates open the important series with the New York Giants today for four tilts. Meadows or Cooper will be the probable selection for McKechnie while John McGraw planned to call Barnes or Neft. The Pirates finished one of the most successful eastern trips by coping 15 out of 18 games.

Art Fletcher, who slugged with Umpire Parman in the first game of a doubleheader at Philadelphia Monday, was indefinitely suspended and fined $100 by President Heydler of the National League.

Walter Johnson turned in his 104th shutout victory of his career and ran his streakout string up to 2,135 yesterday by whitewashing the Clevelanders in the only game played in the major leagues. The score was 4 to 0.

Benny Leonard's injury to his right hand in Monday's fight with Paul Moran caused the indefinite postponement of the fight between Benny and Mickey Walker for the world's middleweight title. The fight was to have materialized on August 20.

H. G. Barclay was named president of the Uniontown Swimming Association at a meeting of the organization Monday evening following the banquet given in honor of Paul Wyatt, Uniontown's swimming champ, who had just returned from the Olympics.

Mount Braddock was whitewashed by Oliphant last evening. The Mountainers were allowed but one hit by Janesko who pitched wonderful ball.

McGraw Hits Mountain

Pottsville, Pa.—McGraw returning to Pottsville about ten o'clock the other night witnessed an unusual sight about half way between McConnors and Lakewood, when a motor fell on a mountain and rolled down its side, breaking into several distinct parts and throwing sparks in all directions.

Walter P. Chrysler States

The motoring public is rapidly coming to realize that in practical results the good Maxwell is to the four-cylinder field, what the Chrysler is in six-cylinder practice.

Practically complete absence of vibration, sterling reliability, new ease of riding and driving, remarkable performance, and equally remarkable economy produce for the owner of this car a far higher degree of motoring satisfaction and value.

Until you know first hand what the good Maxwell now is and what it does—you are simply in no position to judge cars from the standpoint of the most recent development.

Chrysler Power Plus Chrysler Economy

The Brougham

Its tubular front axle—big and amply strong for its job—is another important bit of testimony to the thoroughness of Chrysler Six engineering. This axle is actually 34 per cent more rigid—it has approximately 400 per cent more strength to resist the up-and-down shaking—than an axle of the same weight. Its resistance to horizontal or fore-and-aft motion is five times greater; its resistance to the twisting strains is 138 per cent higher. Exceptional riding is assured by the Chrysler spring suspension and specially special high-speed ball bearings.

Anyone can build a powerful car by building a large gas-cooling motor, but the Chrysler gets 68 horse-power and over 70 miles an hour out of a motor which gives better than 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline.

Anyone can build a heavy car that holds the road—but the Chrysler, which can actually be driven in comfort at 60 miles an hour over rutted roads or cobble streets, is far from being a heavy car.

The Chrysler Six brings its own entire absence of a vibration period at any speed; a crankshaft, whose seven bearings absolutely preclude whip and distortion; a new type of combustion chamber that burns all the gas; a new way of distributing the gas equally to all cylinders; an air-cleaner for the carburetor; an oil filter which cleanses all the crankcase oil every 25 miles.

We are pleased to present the convenience of time payments. Ask about Chrysler's attractive plan.

The Paramount

THE MARRIAGE MARKET—The feature picture today and tomorrow at the Paramount, is a drama of marriage. The plot is developed with much sincerity and is superbly acted by Jack Mulhall, Pauline Garon, Alice Lake and others.

Theodore is a charming girl of seventeen, who is sent to a smart finishing school to be prepared for marriage. Of course the story proves conclusively that artificial preparation for marriage doesn't amount to a row of pins. Theodore was killed on the outside, but no one thought that her heart had been won by the slightest importance. Her feelings and her emotions were entirely neglected by an overly ambitious mother, who realized before it is too late, however, that a girl cannot be offered up on the marriage market like an animal. Theodore was only seventeen but had the heart and mind of a girl of twenty-five. She was not even permitted to love as her heart dictated even though capable of the real, lasting love of which I speak. But Theodore was an unusual type. She was not the kind of girl who would marry for curiosity, but would take a mate only for real love.

The Soisson

"PAWNED," showing today and tomorrow at the Soisson presents Tom Moore with Edith Roberts in interesting roles.

There have been photoplays made in which the setting was better, in which the story told was more reasonable—but few photoplays have been made which provide a greater measure of the kind of entertainment which the average motion picture fan expects when he pays his money at the box office.

There's the story. A young American temporarily stranded in the South Sea Isles, makes a bargain with the wealthy proprietor of a string of gambling casinos throughout the world to conduct a secret investigation for him. He leaves the Orient after an exciting fight and lands in New York to fulfill his mission. There he encounters a beautiful young girl daughter of an old pawn broker whose trade is helped by the gambling casinos. He falls in love with the girl, and she with him. The girl is being annoyed by a young physician, a drug addict who wants to marry her and immediately begins plotting against the man for whom the girl is showing a fondness. The story ends with the spectacular defeat of the drug addict and the "happiest ever after" of the young couple.

On this skeleton there has been constructed a photoplay which has more thrills in it than the average "serial."

The Orpheum

MADMOISELLE MIDNIGHT, with Mae Murray delightful as a carefree daughter of old Mexico, who later was forced to meet the stern actualities caused by a bandit-savior-villain provides splendid entertainment today at the Orpheum.

Mae Murray for whom such adjectives as beautiful, daring, bizarre and bewitching seem to have been expressly original, is determined to give something entirely different and unexpected in every picture she makes. Her newest Metro production, "Mademoiselle Midnight," is just as different from "Fueled Row" as the latter is from her previous pictures.

In "Mademoiselle Midnight," Miss Murray plays the part of a great lady of the court of Napoleon the Third, and then the descendant of the same character in Mexico many years later. Both those roles lend themselves to colorful characterizations of which Miss Murray has taken full advantage.

Miss Murray is admitted by members of her own sex to be the best and most originally dressed star. "Mademoiselle Midnight" gives her every opportunity to take advantage of her abilities along these lines. In the picturesque hoop skirts with all their quaint eighteenth century frills Miss Murray was never more beautiful and charming.

In the many costumes, dresses, gowns and shawls she wears in old Mexico episodes of the story Miss Murray presents one of the most colorful characters of her career.

Take Phosphate and Grow Strong In Summertime

Your Nerves Demand It—Your Blood Needs It—Say Scientists

There's not enough phosphorus in modern foods to benefit nearly one-half of the men and women of America, scientists declare.

To overcome this lack of an element of your body that is necessary to your health, your happiness and even your success in life, weak, anemic, nervous, run-down people are advised to take Evans' Triple Phosphate as dispensed in leading drug stores in the original package.

People who are easily fatigued, who lack ambition, nerve force and are sometimes thin, weak and badly looking in face, healthy flesh, need Evans' Triple Phosphate.

Men and women who feel the heat of summer, the steady and often becoming irritable and depressed will find Evans' Triple Phosphate an inexpensive and helpful friend.

Druggists report a wonderful increase in the demand from men and women who are anxious to renew old-time ambition and who are making an honest effort to become vigorous and keen-minded with a power of endurance that denotes almost perfect health.

"They ask for Evans' Triple Phosphate because they know they need an inexpensive organic phosphate. You are certain to get it at all drug stores.—Advertisement.

Hoover Committee Offers Plan To Stabilize Employment and Lower Costs in Building Industry

The old belief that winter is a bad time to build seems to be giving way in the face of newer construction methods. One large construction company in New York City, carrying on year-round operations, has figured out that in ten years it has lost an average of only fourteen days each winter because of weather conditions.

Weather conditions vary from year to year, but in a ten-year period the average number of days in which the temperature fell below freezing and thus during the working hours in New York was only 62 per year. The cold winter of 1920-1921 had 82 such days, but the following winter there were only 36.

The above figures are given in a report issued by the Committee on Seasonal Unemployment in the Construction Industry, appointed by Secretary Hoover of the Department of Commerce as a result of the President's Conference on Unemployment, formed in 1921 to stimulate employment, to eliminate waste and to reduce costs.

The committee decided that the time, amounting to an average of about 25 per cent among all the building workers of the country, represents waste and direct losses to the construction industries, the workers and the public, and that such losses as are due to seasonal unemployment developed by leading contractors should now be greatly extended. Winter work is being done in some cases more cheaply than summer work.

The committee includes in its membership John W. Blodgett, president of the National Lumber Manufacturers Association, and John D. Smith, president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor, together with prominent representatives of contracting firms, banking interests, real estate associations, architects, engineers and others.

"The act of amputation has advanced to such a point that the effect of bad weather on building operations has been greatly reduced," the report states. "There is today much less manual labor on the job than formerly; a greater proportion of the work is done in factories by power machinery, which is less affected by the elements than hand labor. Steel and concrete construction, with certain safeguards, can go forward at low temperatures. Methods of winter construction developed by leading contractors should now be greatly extended. Winter work is being done in some cases more cheaply than summer work."

WELL SOMETHING DID

By EDWILA

Chapter VIII

Christopher had taken his seat—had already, indeed, made his maiden speech—when Gerald left the nursing home into which he had been moved from the hospital. The doctors, however, were far from satisfied with his condition. He was still thin, nervous in manner, with long periods of absent-mindedness. He seemed, in a way, to have lost self-control. Mary, as they drove home together to Hinderley's house, made up her mind to break the long silence which had existed between them on the subject of Pauline.

"Gerald," she asked, "have you seen or heard anything of the De Ponieres?"

Gerald turned and looked at her out of his hollow eyes.

"Nothing," he confessed. "I wrote from the nursing home six times. I have had no reply. They must have left the hotel in South Kensington."

"Would you like me to try and find out?"

"It doesn't matter," he answered. "I have made up my mind to go there myself this afternoon."

"May I come with you?" she begged.

"If you like," he answered half-heartedly. "They won't be there, though. I am just hoping that I may hear of them."

"The hope, however, was not realized. Madame and Mademoiselle had left the hotel many months ago, and had left no address behind."

Gerald and his sister drove away from the hotel in silence.

"You were disappointed?" Mary asked him suddenly.

"I thought they might have left a message for me," he admitted.

"You'll come down to Hinderley's tomorrow?"

He shook his head.

"I must find her," he answered, in a tone curiously devoid of enthusiasm or hope.

Mary said nothing then, but she took him to task that evening. They had dined late—a late, Lord Hinderley having already gone down to the country. For the first time Gerald showed some interest in Mary's absence.

"What did you say had become of Myrtle?" he inquired.

"She has gone back to France," his sister told him. "She had a little money left to her, and she wanted to go. I had a letter from her this morning. She had bought the old farm where you first saw her and is growing wheat."

"Why did she want to go back?" Gerald persisted. "You were all kind to her, I hope?"

"We all tried to be," Mary answered. "Did Miss de Poniere—why, here's Christopher?"

"Christopher?" he broke off suddenly. "After years of doing nothing for your duties in this manner?"

She asked, as Christopher, still in morning clothes, was shown in by the butler.

"Come to see for some dinner," was the smiling reply, and incidentally to welcome Gerald back.

Mary, who was watching him closely, fancied that his indifference was almost natural.

"Quite right," he observed, "to think that she should and so, after all, I wonder whether she blames or curses me. Gerald, for taking her to the end of the road."

Gerald sighed a little wearily.

"Curse me, I should think," he replied. "All knowledge is pain, so is memory. Last night I woke up suddenly and I remembered fighting with that great brute on the Polish frontier. Did Miss tell you about the man I killed there?" he asked, frowning.

Mary rose abruptly to her feet.

"Remember the doctor's orders," she insisted. "The last twelve months are taken. There are worse things in the world than killing Bolsheviks, anyhow."

"The chap had some one who was fond of him, I suppose," Gerald said gloomily. "You ought to have seen that woman who brought me home, Christopher. I can't get the thought of her out of my brain. The first time I saw her, I went to persuade her to bring her lover, Kromensky. I thought her the coarsest, most brutal, most ungainly creature who ever abused the name of woman. Then I saw her month after month, playing a man's part. She lied, she swore, she fought—fought with her fists if there was nothing else handy; she drank, once she almost carried me over a wall of merriment, with some outpost sentries sniping at us all the time. She was a hideous, glorious, epic figure. There was a man whom we both knew to be a spy and on my tracks. I saw her wheedle him into her room. Two minutes afterward, his blood was streaming out from under the door."

"Gerald!" his sister entreated.

"All right," he muttered. "I'm not sure that it doesn't do me good to talk of these things. They've been a silent horror with me for so long."

Later, the doctor called to see Gerald and Christopher let Mary across the hall into the billiard room.

"Mary," he confided as soon as he had closed the door, "I had a reason for coming round tonight. I have seen the girl."

"Where?" Mary asked breathlessly.

"Here in London. They were opening the gates of Marlborough house as I came along Pall Mall, and I was stopped for a moment on the pavement. A small brougham came out. The windows were closed but I was within a few feet of it. The girl was inside with a young man."

"If only you could have found out where they went to!" Mary exclaimed. "Gerald will never be better until he has seen her."

"He can do that when he likes," then Christopher replied. "I jumped into a taxi and followed the carriage. It drove as before quite a small, detached house at the back of Brompton ton lane. I jumped out of my taxi quickly, and I was just in time to stop her as she was entering the gate."

"Go on," Mary begged. "This is exciting."

"She recognized me at once," Christopher went on, "and she made no attempt to get away. I told her that I was Gerald's friend and that he was looking for her. 'You can tell him she replied, 'that he can find me here.'"

"What did the young man say?"

"Nothing at all. He was very good looking in his way, a great strong fellow, but he looked as though he had been ill. 'What are you going to do about this?' Are you going to tell Gerald?"

She nodded.

"I think so. I don't believe this girl means to marry him. It is much better for her that she knows the exact position."

"I wrote down the address and here it is," Christopher said, handing a card. "If I can be of any use."

"You dear man!" she exclaimed. "We must leave it to Gerald. I hope that he will let me go with him. I think he ought to find out just where he stands at once."

"I am not going back to the house," Christopher remarked. "Could we have one game of billiards?"

"I should love to," she answered. "Gerald will come and look for us as soon as he has finished with the doctor. You used to give me fifteen, didn't you?"

Gerald came in presently. Mary seated herself by her brother's side.

"Gerald," she said, "Christopher has discovered Madame's address. It is close by here. You must go and see her tomorrow. You would like either of us to come with you?"

Gerald began to tremble.

"She is here—in London—all right?" he demanded.

"Absolutely," Christopher declared. "She was looking quite well. Her brother was with her."

"I will go alone," Gerald decided. "I will go tomorrow. Now you have told me something worth hearing. Perhaps tonight I shall sleep."

Gerald, after all, derived small satisfaction from his visit on the following day. He found his destination easily—a small, detached house in a retired back street, with a bell at the front gate and spiked railings. He was admitted without undue delay by an elderly-looking porter maid and, undisturbed, found a small sitting room. After waiting a minute or two, the door was opened and Madame de Poniere entered.

"You have come to see my niece, Lord Dumbey?" she inquired, after a word of conventional greetings.

"It is very surprising that I should come," Gerald replied a little bit nervously.

"Perhaps not from your point of view," was the sagacious reply. "My niece has in fact, been anticipating your visit."

"It would have been kinder of her," Gerald ventured, "if she had let me know her whereabouts. I have been in the hospital and afterward in a nursing home for some time."

"My niece had other matters to consider," Madame de Poniere declared dryly. "She is living in the utmost retirement, through force of circumstances."

"Can I see her now?" Gerald asked bluntly.

"She will grant you an audience," Madame de Poniere replied. "I have her permission to disclose her whereabouts to you only, enjoining secrecy."

"Where is she?" Gerald asked.

"My niece is to be found at Duvenny castle in Scotland," Madame de Poniere announced. "It is a somewhat inaccessible place. Particulars of how to reach it are here."

She handed him a slip of paper.

"In Scotland?" Gerald repeated, a little wearily. "But she was here yesterday."

"She left at night," Madame de Poniere reminded him.

Gerald folded the slip of paper and put it in his pocket.

"Very well," he said. "I will go to Scotland."

Madame de Poniere looked at him through her lorgnettes for a moment thoughtfully.

"I have been ill," she remarked. "I have been ill," he answered.

Madame de Poniere lowered her lorgnettes and closed them with a little snap.

"If I thought that you would accept it," she said, "I would give you a word of advice."

"Can at least hear it," he suggested.

"Go back to the manner of life you were living before you met Pauline—and forget her. Your visit to Scotland will be of no service to you. It will only end in disappointment."

Gerald shook his head.

"That," he said obstinately, "I must discover for myself."

CHIEF FIGURES IN NEWS OF THE DAY.

Owen D. Young, unofficial American representative on the Allied Reparations Committee, has definitely declined the post of American General of Reparations, except for a limited period, and then only if his successor be named in advance. Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, whose sickness kept her out of the Olympic games, declared in Paris she would return to the game as soon as a physician permitted. Eugene Stack, youthful postal messenger of East Orange, N. J., who recently killed John J. Manion and killed a $25,000 mail robbery, in which Stack was wounded twice, has been ordered to report in person to Postmaster-General New in Washington. Stack is now a member of the Post Office Police, and is being kept away from the officers' training camp at Madison, Maryland, N. Y., because of his reported proclivities for the Soviet Government.

Secured on the Orator

The atmosphere was getting slightly heated in the village hall, where the candidate for office was addressing a meeting of those who he hoped would vote for him at the next election. One man in the crowd was determined not to give the aspirant a moment's peace, and he did it. At last the speaker lost his last remnant of patience and, shaking his fist at the heckler, he shouted:

"I look upon you as a confirmed rascal."

"Gentle," replied the heckler, with a sweet smile. "You are perfectly at liberty to look upon me in any character you desire to assume."

MOTHER SHIP FOR U. S. S. SEENANDOAH

Above is shown an aerial view of the U. S. S. "Seenandoah," afloat tender and mother ship to the U. S. S. Shenandoah, the Navy's huge Zepplin. She is the first vessel of her type to be equipped with a mooring mast to which the Shenandoah can be lashed. The "Seenandoah" will be attached to the battle fleet, towing the Shenandoah by her "moor" until time comes for the dirigible to cast off and seek the "sunny" days. She is also equipped to make all needed repairs. Successful moorings of the Shenandoah to the "Seenandoah" already have been made at Narragansett Pier, R. I.

SEE WEAK POINTS IN ARCHITECTURE

American Public Pays Little Attention to Art in Building, Say Experts.

Washington—Weak points in national architecture were a subject of prolonged discussion at the architectural convention held in this city. The arguments were picturesque, but did not start any public debate whatever on the question of the builder's art.

This is said to be rather strange, inasmuch as the educated American likes to be on friendly terms with the arts. He has his own ideas about painting, literature and music. At the worst he knows what he likes, and at the best he has some technical knowledge and an innate sensibility which enable him to appreciate values. But he treats architecture like the proverbial red-headed stepchild. The poorest sort of oil painting is viewed as a work of art, but a building, unless it be a cathedral or a palace, is catalogued in the public mind only as a useful article.

In recent years architects have begun to urge that the public take an interest in their aims and achievements. They point out that so long as man lives in houses architecture will play a more intimate part in their lives than any other art. The trouble is that until the public begins to regard the building as art it will learn very little about the technique of architecture; and yet until it knows something about the technique it is not likely to take much interest in the art.

Another example of untidiness in the building that is so riddled with artistic faults is the railway station. The railway station may be an efficient thing, but it is not attractive, and most architects would feel that the combination of ideas involved is incongruous. There is no reason why Gothic style should be reserved for churches and college buildings, but because of the association of the Gothic with the beautiful old English cathedrals, a building, not a station, is probably not the best sort of building for Gothic design.

Art vs. Usefulness.
Another example of untidiness in the building that is so riddled with artistic faults is the railway station. The railway station may be an efficient thing, but it is not attractive, and most architects would feel that the combination of ideas involved is incongruous.

With these ideas in mind, it is interesting to note a few of the high spots touched by the architects in their discussion of precedent. This is the subject which apparently worries the modern designer more than any other. Plasterers have their impressionist and cubist schools. Writers develop new and strange literary forms. But architecture clings to the classic models.

In fact, it clings so faithfully that the question was raised at the convention as to whether or not many of our famous buildings are not frank plagiarisms. What would we think of the artist who painted "Mona Lisa" for a million dollars, only changing it a bit to fit a given space in a library, or perhaps adding a note of red to tone in with the wall paper? But we think nothing of it if a new public building is a more or less faithful reproduction of the Parthenon or of some famous European palace.

Defense of the practice of imitation rests mainly on the argument that there is no American style of architecture and America can do no better than to adopt forms that are obviously beautiful and inspiring.

No architect believes in ignoring the line work that has been done by the old masters. The most unconventional designers agree that they must draw on the ideas and technique of the great original designers of history. Their point is that in the Golden Age of creative art designers managed to evolve buildings that expressed the spirit of the people and the times. The Italian renaissance artists did not feel that the Greeks and Egyptians had thought out all the possible variations of construction and that a sensible man could do no better than stick to their models.

Nor did those medieval builders shoulder at the sight of structures that could not be labeled Greek, Roman or generally classic.

What the builders of American cities are criticized for is that they have so far done their best work in foreign styles, and that they have not succeeded ed in using those styles to evolve anything typically American for our typically American and Twentieth century structures.

W. R. R. Wilcox, an Oregon architect, pointed out the question that present-day buildings have not a great deal in common with ancient buildings. "Ancient cities," he said, "did not have our schools, libraries, hospitals, banks, factories nor our commercial buildings. As for houses, temples and tombs, probably only the last named were used in the way we use them."

He pointed out that the designers of buildings could learn some things about artistic expression of America from the automobile makers. Makers of automobiles have not gone to the old civilizations for quaint and beautiful and impractical types of vehicles. He went on to describe an imaginary visit to an automobile plant such as we might have today if automobile designers had followed the methods of architecture.

"On exhibition were a number of vehicles of historic design. They were advertised as the latest word in automobiles. Among them were vehicles which looked like all the world from old Roman and Egyptian wagons, Italian barouches, German stage carriages, French landaus, English coaches, Irish jaunting cars—all sorts."

"A salesman was explaining the difficulties met with in adapting a splendid reproduction of a Greek chariot to the necessities of an automobile; how incongruous of the motor and provision of an invisible third wheel to take the weight borne by the tongue and horses to the original was struck of genius. To objection of a possible customer that an arrangement which required one to stand while driving was inconvenient, the salesman replied that, although a seat would be a convenience, integrity of design precluded its use—that a reputation for scholarly design was of too great value to be jeopardized by violated precedent."

No Immediate Progress.
The architects were more or less agreed that there is little prospect that well-kept there is more really good architecture being produced in America today than ever before, and far better than that of any other country in the world for the last 200 years."

The situation, however, is far from hopeful, all designers really good architecture being produced in America today than ever before, and far better than that of any other country in the world for the last 200 years."

Admission from told his fellow architects at the convention that in many American homes, colleges and churches precedent and tradition have been used as bases for real creative expression.

"In spite of plagiarism—or because of it," he said, "we all know perfectly well that there is more really good architecture being produced in America today than ever before, and far better than that of any other country in the world for the last 200 years."

Wage-Earning Urged
on Would-Be Brides

Bayketo, Cal.—The best training for matrimony a girl can get is by procuring employment for a while, in the opinion of Miss Cleo Murland, associate professor of vocational education at the University of California.

"As an apprenticeship for marriage," said Miss Murland, "wage earning is an essential feature. Economic freedom of women is a determining factor in the length of the pre-marriage period. In the stability of the home and in its maintenance. The self-respect of a woman as well as her position in the family, is determined in part by her ability to be economically independent. More and more the daughter, as well as the son, seeks employment as soon as school days are over."

Miss Murland classified as the three distinct pluses in a woman's development the time preceding marriage, the time of family responsibility, and the time of marriage when she is released from these responsibilities.

She explained her views at a recent conference of educators. It was the conclusion of the conference that a girl should be educated both as a homemaker and as a potential wage-earner.
